In First Town Council Race...

Nine Candidates Will Take Their Shot

by Nicholas Renton

Mammoth residents are getting their first taste of civic politics this month as nine town council candidates began their campaigns for the June 5 election.

Barbara Campbell, Gary Flynn, Terry Gardner, Boyd Lemmon, Sandra Medina, Greg Newbry Richard Paust, Roy Saari and Alice Watkins are all running for the five seats on the inevitable town council of the newly incorporated township of Mammoth Lakes, and will face the voters at a candidate's night Tuesday, May 29, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the community center.

Unlike June Lake, where incorporation has encountered vocal opposition from some local residents, the birth of a new political entity appears to be a fait accompli, a foregone conclusion. At a protest hearing for opponents of incorporation at a Jan. 24 meeting of the Mono County Board of Supervisors, not a single citizen voiced objection to the plan.

For the most part, it has been a smooth, harmonious campaign—unlike the successful recall campaign of former Mono County supervisors Mike Jencks and Al Leydecker last fall.

Incorporation Looms As Important Issue In Mammoth's Future

by Ziba Rashidian

When Mammoth voters go to the polls Tuesday, June 5, probably the most important issue they will decide is whether or not to form a city government.

The vote in Mammoth will culminate over 10 years of local debate on the pros and cons of declaring at least a partial independence from Mono County. Ten years ago, an incorporation bid successfully garnered approval of the Local Agency Formation Commission, but was foiled in hearings before Mono County Supervisors and was never put to the voters.

The most recent bid for local government began in 1981 when the Mammoth Incorporation Committee teamed up with LAFCo to fund a feasibility study to look into the economic viability of the proposed city.

The 1981 report was followed up by a second feasibility study prepared in November 1983. The second study, prepared by the consulting firm for the incorporation committee, Christensen and Wallace of Oceanside, was based on the "actual" revenues generated within the proposed boundaries of the city and the cost—based on county figures—of delivering services to the town for the fiscal year 1982-83.

The Christensen report found approximately $3.1 million available in revenues with a projected $2.039 million in expenditures for the town's first year of operation.

John Travolta in Mammoth To Make a 'Perfect' Film

by Mike Yorkey

Hollywood actor John Travolta and actress Jamie Lee Curtis arrived in Mammoth Sunday night to begin filming of a new movie at the Mammoth Mountain Ski Area.

The pair are in Mammoth to film a segment of the movie "Perfect," the story of a Rolling Stone journalist (Travolta), who develops a relationship with an aerobics dance instructor (Curtis). They meet at the health club.

Jim Bridges is the director and co-writer of the screenplay with Aaron Latham. The movie is taken from a magazine article that Latham wrote.

A spokesman for the project said shooting will take place on Wednesday and Thursday in the rooms

MUSD, Forest Service Find Site Formula

New Elementary School Should Go Forward on Time

by Nicholas Renton

With the help of Mammoth's federal legislators and a Mammoth Unified School District lobbying effort, a tentative formula was reached with the Forest Service in Washington, D.C., which would allow MUSD's new elementary school to go to bid immediately.

Andrea Armstrong, the president of the Mammoth school board, MUSD Superintendent Thomas Henry, administrative assistant Rich McAteer and the district's attorney, Frank Fekete, departed for the capital Monday, May 21, in the lobbying campaign.

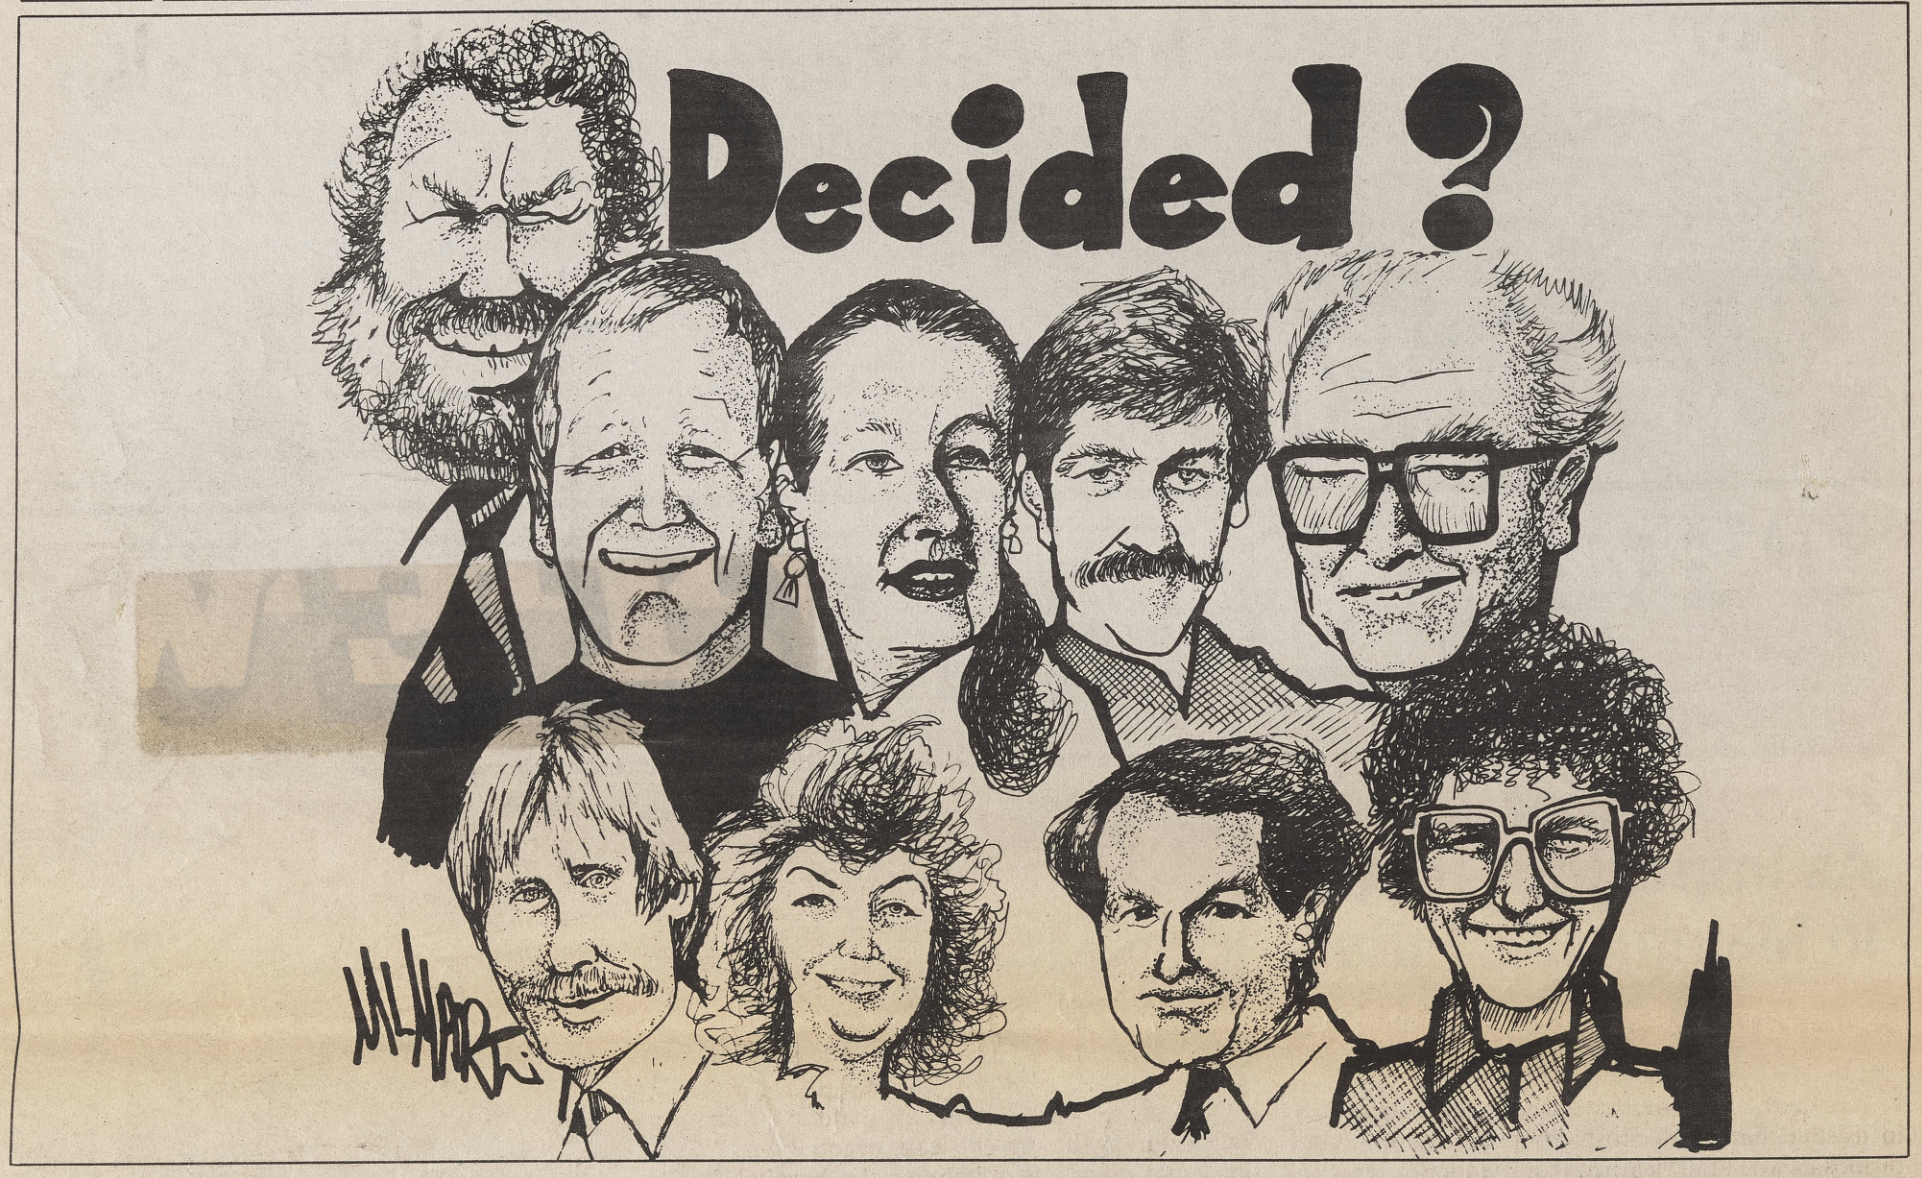

U.S. Sens. Alan Cranston and Pete Wilson, together with Rep. Richard Lehman, D-Sanger, were all enlisted by the district to appeal the Forest Service's decision to review the appraisal of the 8.75-acre site.

To purchase the site, MUSD received a state allocation of $835,000, the lower of two appraisals last year. After the Forest Service's San Francisco office recommended the lower figure be accepted, the agency's Washington, D.C., headquarters ordered both appraisals reviewed.

Henry initiated the Washington trip in response to his fear that a reappraisal of the site would set a price beyond the district's means, and therefore delay the scheduled fall 1985 completion date of the new elementary school, which MUSD hopes to begin building this September.

After visiting with aides from the offices of Cranston, Wilson, and meeting with Lehman himself both Tuesday and Wednesday, the district officials met Forest Service chief administrator Max Peterson

To the Friends of Jason Hatter

Dear Editor:

By the time you read this letter, with the grace of God, I will be enroute to Singapore to see Jason. This year my Mother's Day will fall on May 26 when I see Jason. It will also be his 20th birthday and I am hoping that he will be able to get around, if only in a wheel chair. It will also be a little over one month since his accident.

This letter is to say a brief thank you to a lot of people. I don't even know most of them, but they have sent their prayers and love to Jason and his family. These gifts have made the last month endurable and survivable for me and for Jason too. He still has a long road back to normal health and to the flight deck of the Midway, but the first vital days and weeks have been completed.

To everyone who has cared, and in that care, extended their hands and helped in whatever way, thank you and God bless you all.

Betty Hatter

He Who Pays The Piper

Dear Editor:

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to all the candidates for city council. Their interest in running for the first term demonstrates a great deal of courage and dedication. At the same time, I feel that we need to know who has contributed to their campaigns, after all, "He who pays the piper calls the tune."

Could you print a list of the candidates and anyone who contributed $100 or more to each?

G. Brown

Editor's Reply: The state's Fair Political Practices Commission says a form is due May 24 listing all contributors to a campaign which spends $500 or more. Contributors to candidates whose campaigns spend less than $500 must be made public by July 31.

Planning Commissioners Tackle Juniper Ridge

Issues Range from Water to Neighbors

by Ziba Rashidian

Inadequate fire protection, impacts on the Valentine Reserve and concerns of residents of the Majestic Pines area delayed Planning Commission approval of the Juniper Ridge project Wednesday.

The commission continued the hearing to Monday, June 11 at the Mammoth Lakes Community Center. The hearing will begin at 10 a.m.

Over 100 Mammoth residents and concerned officials packed the Mammoth Lakes Community Center at the Planning Commission hearing Wednesday afternoon, although only a handful testified during the proceeding.

The project, which includes a 326-room hotel/convention facility, 330 condominium units, 33,700 square feet of recreation-oriented facilities and about 14,000 square feet of commercial space, has sparked much community debate ever since project proponents started pushing for approval of the proposal this year.

One of the main points raised during the two hour hearing was the issue of fire protection for the large project adjacent to Chair 15.

At the last hearing on the project, Mammoth Lakes Fire Protection District attorney Myron Blumberg presented the commission with the district's solution to the fire protection question. According to the attorney, the district would require Senior Corp., the owner of the 59.16 acre parcel, to provide over an acre of land for a satellite fire station and to provide the fire department with the equipment needed to fight a high-rise fire.

At this week's hearing, Senior Corp. attorney Michael Langs told the board the fire district's requirements would be prohibitive to developments at the site.

"Candidly, those conditions are beyond Senior Corp.'s ability to meet or willingness to meet," he said.

Langs proposed a compromise, suggesting a cash contribution of $100,000 as the developer's share of the fire protection problem, as well as any other fees normally assessed on developments within the district.

Blumberg said that proposal would be unacceptable to the district.

Fire Chief Jon Sweeny told the commissioners that without the provision of additional equipment, the district would not be capable of providing fire protection on a project of the size and at the location of Juniper Ridge.

Since the first planning commission hearing on the

Two Medical Groups Looked at Hospital

by Mike Yorkey

Two national hospital chains expressed an interest in leasing Mammoth Hospital, but did not submit proposals when they learned that Mammoth Hospital has operated in the red since it opened its doors in 1978.

The American Medical International group and Health West, two "for profit" health organizations, made inquiries to Mammoth Hospital after hearing that Centinela Valley Health Services was submitting a formal lease proposal to Mammoth Hospital.

Centinela Valley, a non-profit health organization based in Inglewood, announced its intention to lease Mammoth Hospital in April.

AMI and Health West quickly lost interest in Mammoth Hospital after learning that the hospital does not make a profit, said Dr. Cloyce Odom, the hospital administrator. Both health organizations sell public stock and have to answer to their stockholders.

Odom also confirmed that the hospital's attorney, Mike Ross, is being indirectly paid by Centinela Valley during the current lease negotiations. "Centinela has agreed to reimburse the hospital for its legal fees during the negotiation period," said Odom.

$920,000 Grant to Go to Airport Building Project

by Nicholas Renton

Mammoth/June Lakes Airport won a $920,000 grant from the Department of Transportation for further construction of its facilities, Friday, May 18.

The grant, which will be matched by $92,000 from Mono County, will provide funding for continued construction of the airport's taxiway system, a new parking apron on the west side of the hangar building, some security fencing and hydroseeding at the site of the recent runway extension.

"It's just great," said Jim Ward, the deputy director of public works for Mono County who has responsibility for the airport. "It's a project that needs to be completed."

Ward said the county had applied for the grant near Jan. 1 of this year.

Rep. Richard Lehman supported the county's application, and had endorsed the grant to the Department of Transportation "100 percent," according to Scott Nishioki, a spokesman for Lehman, who represents Mono County.

Former MHS Student Commits Suicide in Jail

by Nicholas Renton

A Crowley Lake man committed suicide by hanging himself with a sheet from his cell in Mono County Jail in Bridgeport early in the morning of Friday, May 18, according to the Mono County Sheriff's Department.

Brian Witters, 20, had been arrested in the San Francisco area May 17 on Mono County warrants ranging from battery to disturbing the peace. After transferral to the county jail, Witters was found hanging in his cell at 1:25 a.m. Friday.

A joint investigation by the coroners' departments of both Inyo and Mono counties determined the death as suicidal.

Witters had been arrested several times since 1983, and last October was sentenced to undergo treatment in a 30-day program at a psychiatric facility of Truckee Meadows Hospital in Reno, Nev., after a battery conviction. At that time, he also received three years' probation and was ordered to continue therapy under Tom Wallace, the director of mental health services for Mono County.

An active student at Mammoth High School, Witters excelled in junior varsity football, participated in wrestling and was elected junior class president before passing the state equivalency exam.

Witters is survived by his parents Randy and Marti, and his brother Brent and sister Kim. Grandparents are Olive Witters of Union City, Ind., Georgianna Stuart of West Carrollton, Ohio, and Irvin and Wanda Feagin of Greenville, Ohio.

Memorial services were held Tuesday at Brune & Buck Mortuary in Bishop. Funeral services will be held at a later date in Union City, Ind.

Warm, sunny days and mild nights have been heralding the greening of aspen trees and blooming of wildflowers for the past several days. This trend should continue over the Memorial Day weekend. Southwesterly winds 15-30 mph. Highs in low 70s, lows in low 40s. Friday-Sunday: Fair and warmer. Highs in upper 70s, lows in high 40s. Westerly winds at times, 10-25 mph.

Mammoth Lakes Chamber of Commerce

CABOOSE CORNER

by Chris Johnstone Wedeking

Slow in town? a little. But don't give up. As a matter of fact, you'd better get ready for the deluge. The chamber has been getting a lot of requests for summer information. A lot of people will want to beat the heat and crowds of Los Angeles during the Olympics and are consequently looking for an alternate place to spend at least part of the summer. We are going to be busy. This brings me to the subject of summer brochures, again. Please get us your new brochures as soon as you can so we can include them in our mailings. It is important for us, but more important for you.

Press releases on the Fourth of July activities are out, including the weekend before and after. If your event did not make the press, it's because we didn't know about it. But, have we got a lineup—motocross, Lions Club pancake breakfast, Gold Rush Days parade, fireworks at Crowley Lake, street dance, chili cook-off, black powder shoot and Mammoth Hospital Auxiliary art show. Details can be found in the press release or call the chamber.

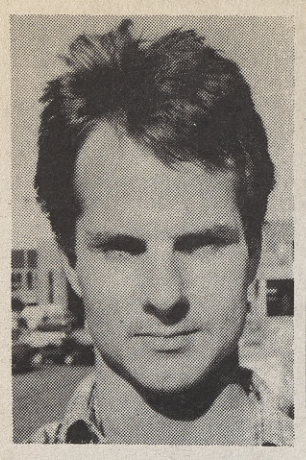

Here are several reminders for you: Candidate Night is Tuesday, May 29, at 7 p.m. in the community center; mixers are generally held on the first Monday of each month, however, June's mixer will be on Wednesday, June 13; and general meetings are twice a year and are held during or instead of a mixer. Notifications of mixers and meetings are sent out, and, of course, the "Caboose Corner" or the Chamber office can fill you in on details.

Elections crucial to our area will be held Tuesday, June 5. It only takes a few minutes to vote so be sure you do.

Mammoth might seem a little slow right now, between seasons, but we're certainly not boring.

Hoar Toxicological Exam Revealed

Toxicological examinations undertaken by the coroner's division of the Mono County Sheriff's Department have revealed that both Mammoth Lakes resident Edward Hoar and his passenger, Nestor Gerena, were legally intoxicated at the time of their deaths in Crowley Lake one-vehicle accident April 30. Hoar had an alcohol blood level of 0.19, while Gerena had a level of 0.25. An alcohol level above .10 indicates legal intoxication. Tests for cocaine and tetrahydracannibol (THC), the active ingredient in marijuana, were also positive, according to Bud Johnson, the chief deputy coroner for Mono County.

Clarification on 'Vote Yes for Town'

A political ad currently running in this newspaper urges Mammoth voters to vote yes for "name of the town." This does not signify a name change for the community. Instead, it is a legal distinction on whether the incorporated entity should be called a "town" or a "city." A vote yes means Mammoth's official vehicles, for example, would bear the logo "Town of Mammoth Lakes," whereas their counterparts in Bishop read "City of Bishop."

A Look at Arizona's Lesser-Known Historic Areas

This week we'll continue our summer vacation tour of some of Arizona's lesser known historic areas. Early prospectors have certainly left their imprint on the land in Southern Arizona's backcountry. Dotting the Patagonia Mountains are hundreds of deserted trails, mines and ghost towns. Among these is Mowry City, one of the most fascinating, earliest and best preserved boom towns in the entire state.

To reach it, take the dirt road south from the town of Patagonia. Local inquiry will instruct you as to the correct turnoff. And although the road is rough in some sections, the trip can be completed with any vehicle. There are no services along the route, so be sure to take along ample drinking water, food and plenty of film.

Morning, Noonan, Night

with Buddy Noonan

A portion of Mowry City ghost town in southern Arizona.

Until recently there was a sign marking Mowry's location, but vandals have removed it. So keep a close watch on your speedometer. Fourteen miles south of Patagonia you'll come to a lush meadow. Turning left at the meadow, you'll notice old buildings and ruins lining both sides of the road in the distance. This is what was once Mowry's busy Main Street. But now, brush and trees grow through empty windows and doors. Small native creatures scurry for protection at the graveled approach of your car. Dotted everywhere on hillsides are additional ruins, their jagged walls pointing aimlessly skyward. In such a deserted setting it's difficult to visualize that this was really once a bustling city. But it was, at one time, within a four-year period, producing over a million dollars in silver ore.

The Patagonia, a mine which probably dates back to the Jesuit priests, was originally located there. In 1857 it was rediscovered by two Mexican prospectors. They sold their interest to a group of soldiers from Fort Crittenden, who, in turn, sold the mine to a fellow officer, Lieutenant Sylvester Mowry in 1859 for $25,000. He immediately resigned hs commission, renamed the mine after himself, then poured everything he had into his holdings and that of developing a market. This in itself was quite a gamble since the coming of railroads into the remote area wouldn't take place for another 30 years.

He continued to expand the main mine shaft, bringing out huge quantities of silver ore which was smelted in Mexican ovens. As an indication of his success, here's what he recorded in 1860: "There are 12 of these furnaces at the reduction works, six of which are run alternate weeks. The yield is, of course, lead and silver, which is shipped to Europe in bars weighing about 70 pounds each. These bars sell in England from $200 per ton upward, giving a clear profit, over all expenses—mining, smelting, freight, insurance and commissions—of over $100 per ton. A portion of these bars is refined at the mines in the English cupel furnace (the Mexican vaso), to supply silver for the payment of current expenses. The silver is moulded into bars, from $2 up to $300, and is a ready and convenient circulating medium in a country where coin exists only in the memory of some individual who has been to California. The yield of the mines with the present furnaces, when all are in operation, is about $4,500 per week of silver."

Along with his success as a miner, Mowry was also a good writer, speaker and politician. He became a delegate to Congress simply by pointing out that he was the only one applying for that position. While running for office he gave a flowery speech about Arizona's natural resources. In it he made repeated references to the state's game and fish. Edward Cross, editor of The Arizonian, a newspaper in Tubac, didn't see him as political material and took him to task in reference to Mowry's numerous fish statements. As a result he printed the following: "There is only one kind of fish that has yet been discovered in the streams of the Territory . . and it is about as long as a man's finger and generally known as the Mowry Trout!"

Being called a liar, even in vague language, was something Sylvester Mowry would not tolerate. He challenged Edward Cross to a duel. Having to save face with readers, Cross accepted. It would take place July 8, 1859 near Tubac. Mowry decided on the weapons to be used, Burnside rifles at 40 paces.

On the day of the duel a large gallery had gathered. Gambling ran rampant through the crowd, with last minute bets running high as to the outcome. Then, an eerie hush fell across the spectators as the two men entered the field; and, back to back, prepared for a day of death. At a given signal, they slowly separated and started to tread the required 40 long paces. Soon, wild frontier justice would be sorely tested.

ATTORNEY NOTES

ADVANTAGES OF A LIVING REVOCABLE TRUST

Most people focus their estate planning efforts on minimizing the estate tax tab. But there's another cost that can be thought of as the non-tax tax—the cost, annoyance, lack of freedom, delay, publicity, and general frustration encountered in making the transition from the individual's personal ownership of wealth in all forms to a new entity, an estate, and then to the beneficiaries, trusts, and so forth, provided by will. The revocable living trust is a simple, relatively painless way of transferring property that deserves the attention of every individual, regardless of age or income bracket.

Trust assets do not go through probate, which usually proves to be not only a disconcerting and frustrating event but a long, drawn-out and expensive operation.

New Post Office Plans Fail to Pass DRA Muster

by Ziba Rashidian

Architectural plans for the new Mammoth post office and the multi-unit Quality Inn, off Hwy. 203, failed to pass muster at last week's Mammoth Lakes Design Review Authority meeting.

According to DRA member Greg Newbry, the post office design fails to conform to the aesthetic guidelines of the authority's empowering ordinance.

Newbry said, "It was the unanimous decision of the DRA that the post office proposal does not conform to the ordinance in regard to aesthetics." He added that the post office design does not meld with the architectural theme of the community. "It looks like a bathroom turned inside out."

The post office is designed to be "maintenance free," according to the DRA member. This means it has no wood surfaces and the outside is comprised of the "glazed block" often used by the Forest Service for the interior of its bathroom facilities, Newbry said.

"It's a square box. It doesn't at all fit the aesthetic atmosphere of the community," added Newbry.

The DRA referred the post office design to the planning department for further comment, and also plans to forward the DRA findings to the board of supervisors.

Newbry noted that since the post office is a federal project, the input of both the DRA and local planning officials does not have to be taken into account in its design.

The Quality Inn project, being developed by Roger Parsons of Bishop, was also sent back to the architect for further revisions. When the project was first reviewed by the DRA, the group granted approval of the plans, stipulating that the Lindal Homes cabin, located on the site of the proposed motel, be moved.

Parsons appealed that ruling to the board of supervisors. The board, in early April, remanded the issue back to the DRA. The board also ruled that the DRA had exceeded its jurisdiction in suggesting the A-frame structure be removed from its present location to make way for the motel.

Parsons argued that maintaining the cabin would alleviate some visual problems with the motel. In the

Mammoth Air Shuttle Flying High Since Its Start

by Mike Yorkey

Mammoth Air Shuttle announced excellent passenger loads since beginning flights to Burbank in March and several changes in its summer schedule this week.

The locally owned company said its nine-passenger Piper Chieftan plane has been 85 percent full since the first flight March 2. Passenger loads have been the highest during May; close to 85 percent of the seats were sold during the off-season month. "The bookings have been consistent across the board," said Sheila Glazov of Mammoth Air Shuttle.

Mammoth Air Shuttle also announced its new summer schedule that begins Memorial weekend. The Friday and Sunday departures to Burbank Airport have been moved back three hours to allow second-home owners and Mammoth visitors more time in Mammoth. Conversely, Mammoth residents will have extra time to visit and shop while in the Southland.

The Friday flight departs at 3:45 p.m., arriving in Burbank at 5:30 p.m. The plane then returns to Mammoth departing at 6 p.m. and arriving at 7:45 p.m. The Saturday flight in the morning remains the same. Mammoth Air Shuttle departs at 8:30 a.m., arrives in Burbank at 10:15 a.m., departs for Mammoth at 10:45 a.m., arriving at 12:30 a.m.

On Sunday, the Mammoth Air Shuttle follows the same time schedule as the Friday flight. On Monday, the plane leaves the same time as the Saturday flight. One-way flights cost $79.

"We're extremely pleased with our business," said Glazov. "The important thing is that we have had no planes go back and forth empty." Glazov said plans are being made to expand service to the Long Beach Airport in the fall to tap into the Orange County and South Bay market.

The young airline has also been getting travelers from as far away as Texas, New York and Florida who are coming specifically to Mammoth to vacation. Mammoth Air Shuttle is even receiving bookings in July and repeat bookings. "The passengers know we will be there, that we will be on time," said Glazov. "There is a good feeling of consistency there."

She and her husband Jordan attended the "Travel Age West" show for travel agents in San Francisco recently to promote Mammoth and the airline. Glazov said many persons in San Francisco have not heard about Mammoth.

Mammoth Air Shuttle is also working on package plans for weekend get-aways in Reno, San Francisco and Southern California. The small-package service has not changed, said Glazov.

Glazov also had nothing but praise for the community of Mammoth. "We keep track of how people heard of us, and everytime, it's the locals who refer us. People really feel good about us. We are a locally owned operation and we have made a commitment to this community," said Glazov.

Alpha Aviation Will Add LAX Service

The other airline flying into the Mammoth/June Lakes Airport, Alpha Aviation, announced plans to begin regularly scheduled service by June 15.

Presently, Alpha Aviation flies daily to Mammoth on a charter basis. Once regularly scheduled service begins, flights will be increased to two flights on Fridays and Sundays. The other major change is that Alpha Aviation will begin to fly to Los Angeles International Airport.

"We are ready to go now," said Alan Berenstein, president of Alpha Aviation. The company is finalizing a lease agreement with Mono County to lease the old Wings West terminal at the Mammoth airport.

The new flights will fly directly into LAX's West Imperial terminal on a daily basis. This will allow direct "interlining" with other airlines, said Berenstein. In the meantime, the flights to Van Nuys will be continued on the weekend. "I have the feeling that over a period of time that Van Nuys will develop its own market, or it may fade out entirely," said Berenstein.

The airline president also said he is very happy with customer reponse since Alpha Aviation began serving Mammoth Dec. 23. "I feel we are doing very well," said Berenstein, who added that their planes were 65 percent full during the winter season. Around 350 persons fly Alpha Aviation each month.

Berenstein said the LAX service would have begun much sooner, but applications and lease agreements added several months to the beginning of Mammoth-LAX service.

A Fire Safety Tip

The fire department cautions all residents and visitors not to use charcoal barbecues on wooden decks or porches because sparks sometimes are blown onto the decking. Some rules to follow are: 1. Never barbecue on wooden decking or near combustible surfaces; 2. Never leave the barbecue unattended; and 3. Extinguish the coals when finished. Call the fire department at 934-2300 for questions.

hearing before the supervisors, the developer said the structure will look "like a barracks" since it spreads 250 feet across the parcel. Parsons said maintaining the Lindal cabin would break up the barracks-like aspect of the inn. At the April hearing, the board directed Parsons to work with the DRA on a solution to the visual problems of the project.

At Wednesday's DRA meeting, the authority directed Parsons to come back next week with proposals to modify the existing structure. The DRA suggested that the architecture of the cabin does not mesh with the more modern flavor of the inn. This is particularly necessary, the DRA noted, since the cabin will be only 10 feet in front of the proposed motel. Authority members also said one of the problems with using the cabin to "break up" the length of the inn is the differences in scale between the two buildings.

The Parsons project has received all of the necessary county approvals except for a sign-off from the DRA.

First Drug Suspect Receives a Reduced Charge

Sandra Mitchell Pleads Guilty to Misdemeanor

by Ziba Rashidian

Sandra Mitchell, 24, who pleaded innocent to three felony drug charges following an undercover narcotics investigation by the Mono Sheriff's Department earlier this spring, received a probationary sentence after pleading guilty to a reduced charge May 17.

Mitchell was the last of the 18 suspects arrested in the April 10-13 Mammoth drug enforcement sweep. She surrendered herself to Mono Sheriff's Department April 13.

Mitchell, represented by Mammoth attorney Sandra Medina, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of possession of a non-narcotic controlled substance at her court appearance May 17. She received a sentence of two year's summary probation, a $192 fine and will be required to attend a counseling program in Orange County where she now lives.

According to Deputy District Attorney Stan Eller, misdemeanor pleas may be offered in some of the cases arising from the drug sweep. In Mitchell's case, Eller said the plea was offered "because her involvement was minimal compared to the majority of defendants and she had no prior record of criminal activity whatsoever."

The 17 other suspects arrested in the drug sweep are now awaiting preliminary hearings. All are charged with felony counts of possession of cocaine, possession of cocaine for sale and sale of cocaine.

Preliminary hearings for Robert Bigelow, 22; Richard Ayotte, 25; George Hamlett, 33; Jeffrey Snedden, 28; and Raymond Ziegler, 35, are scheduled for Wednesday, May 30 in Mammoth Justice Court.

Thursday, May 31, preliminary hearings are set for Michael Turner, 32, and Donald Foote, 31.

Friday, June 1, a hearing is set for John Taylor, 25.

Two additional hearings are set for Thursday, June 7, for Thomas Rhode, 28, and Scott Zeleznick, 23. Friday, June 8, court appearances are calendared for David Quinn, 21; Brian Reid, 32; Robert Quinton, 27; Kevin Hill, 31; and Scott Bennett, 22. Robert Paris, 45, arraignment is set for June 11. A preliminary hearing for Gerald Blonsky, 28, is set for July 11.

The drug enforcement sweep in early April culminated a six-month undercover investigation by the Mono Sheriff's Department. A newly hired deputy sheriff, Suzanne Gibney, went undercover for the six-month period making several thousand dollars worth of cocaine purchases. Gibney is now taking up regular deputy duties in the department.

INCORPORATION...

An independent analysis of the feasibility, prepared by LAFCo consultant Bill Zion, backed up the Christensen study. Zion's findings were more conservative than those of the incorporation committee's consultant.

Zion estimated revenues to the town's coffers for its first year of existence at $3.027 million with expenditures hovering around $2.5 million.

Christensen, who has done several incorporation studies for proposed cities throughout California (most recently for Cathedral City), has a rule of thumb for determining the feasibility of these proposals. According to the consultant, a surplus of 10 to 15 percent of revenues over expenditures indicates the economic viability of a proposed city or town. In Mammoth's case, the percentage is over 33 percent.

Of course, as both consultants admit, there is more to the viability of an incorporation than money. The key is politics. In California there has been a surge of incorporations ever since the passage of Proposition 13 (the Jarvis-Gann initiative) in 1978. In the six years since Proposition 13, close to 20 new cities have come into being in California—more than twice the number of cities formed in the decade from 1968-78.

One of the reasons for the dramatic increase is the restraint the constitutional amendment placed on local governments' taxation powers. Raising property taxes beyond the annual rate of $1 per $100 of market value set by Proposition 13 requires approval at the polls by two-thirds of the registered voters within the jurisdiction. The amendment scuttled previously advanced arguments against incorporation which held that the formation of a new city would translate into higher taxes.

The issue of how tax dollars generated in Mammoth Lakes are spent by the county has been a main bone of contention of incorporation proponents. The incorporation committee argues that local control will ensure that Mammoth gets its fair share of the taxes generated in the community.

Incorporation committee members state that Mammoth paid over $4 million into the county coffers this year, but only received $1.5 million in direct services from the county.

Political considerations spawning incorporation drives throughout the state range from a general dissatisfaction with the level of services being provided by county governments to the desire for control over the growth of the community. The proponents of the Mammoth incorporation bid cite deteriorating road conditions, the need for local control over planning and a plethora of problems not being addressed by the county. These range from the need for an improved transit system to county permit requirements for local businesses.

Winning the vote in the June election is only the tip of the iceberg in the process of establishing the new town. The town council will be faced with a laundry list of organizational tasks ranging from getting liability insurance to taking actions necessary to ensure the town receives the revenues it has coming to it.

The council will have a reprieve of sorts since Mono County is required by law to continue to provide services to the community until the end of the fiscal year—June 30, 1985.

The formation of a town of Mammoth Lakes certainly offers the community a closer and more accountable government. But while the town may experience an economic bonanza, the incorporation will have a significant short-term impact on Mono County. In the short term, the county faces budget short falls and at least a couple of years of fiscal austerity. In the long run, the formation of the town will help the county, providing an increased tax base without the responsiblity of providing services. It will mean tailoring county government to answer the problems of its rural areas, ending the political tensions created by county government legislating answers to the urban problems of Mammoth and having to enforce those answers on the rural communities of the county.

Next week The Review will examine these potential impacts on Mono County.

Snowcreek Golf Course Construction Delayed

No Work This Summer; 18 Holes Seen as Better

by Ziba Rashidian

The Dempsey Construction Corp. announced this week that it will not start construction of its planned nine-hole golf course in Mammoth this summer.

Company vice president Gail Frampton said the decision to delay the project was made to allow further negotiations with the Forest Service.

"During 1983, Dempsey Construction Corp. determined that an 18-hole golf course should be constructed in lieu of its planned nine-hole course," Frampton said. "If Sun Valley, Aspen and Vail have three to five golf courses each, and people come here to Mammoth and can only play nine holes, the image just isn't that great [for Mammoth]."

In order to get the additional acreage to expand the course to 18 holes, Frampton said the company will pursue either a land trade or a lease agreement with the Forest Service.

Frampton said the company has requested that about 60 acres adjacent to the present Snowcreek project in the meadow be zoned open space in the MonoPlan update. Such a land use designation would allow a golf course on the acreage.

Frampton said this summer the company will pursue county approvals for initial work at the site. "Hopefully, we can have everything resolved by next year so we can get started," Frampton said.

The proposed nine-hole course was approved by Mono Planning Commissioners this week. The commission approved the environmental impact report as well as the use permit for the project.

Issues addressed by the environmental report include the impact on Nordic skiing in the area, loss of the meadow, impact on deer migrating through the area, possible mosquito problems and water quality impacts on Mammoth Creek.

The EIR proposes mitigation measures for most of the identified impacts. No mitigations are proposed for the loss of a Nordic skiing area or the loss of the meadow.

"The project area is private property and existing Nordic skiing activities are only allowed by express permission of the owner," the EIR states. "Eventual completion of the Snowcreek Resort will result in residential and commercial development of the remaining private lands between the golf course and the ski touring center. This development will eventually preclude direct open space access between the two areas," the EIR states. The report adds that since the Nordic skiing is presently taking place on private land, no mitigation measure is required.

Another area where no mitigation is proposed is the loss of the meadow area. "Completion of the golf course will result in the permanent transformation of approximately 62.4 acres of grassland, meadow and sagebrush scrub habitat," the EIR notes. "Loss of such a habitat and the attendant reduction in the animal population are unavoidable if the project is implemented." This finding required the commission to make a "statement of overriding consideration" determining that the benefits of the proposal outweigh the environmental impact.

The EIR notes that the golf course is located in a deer migration corridor. The Department of Fish and Game expressed concern that the presence of the deer could lead to "depradations to trees and shrubs and other vegetation within the golf course area." They suggest some form of fencing to discourage the deer from entering the area. But the EIR notes that the presence of people in the area and the further development of the meadow would probably keep the deer away.

The project calls for the creation of four lakes or large ponds, a proposal that prompted concern of the Mosquito Abatement District. Measures to prevent development of a mosquito problem are proposed in the EIR. The issue of runoff from the golf course into Mammoth Creek is also addressed in the EIR and the county's proposed use permit conditions.

The commission overruled a proposed use permit condition that would have required Dempsey to monitor groundwater levels at the site and provide the Forest Service with weekly groundwater data. The Forest Service is concerned that the development will impact the water supply on federal lands adjacent to the golf course.

Dempsey will also be required to conduct long-term chemical monitoring to record runoff from the project that might carry fertilizers into Mammoth Creek.

The Snowcreek resort lies on 345 acres of privately owned land in the meadow area and is being developed under a 20-year development agreement between Dempsey and Mono County.

Open Letter to Residents of June Lake Loop:

On a number of occasions I have been asked, "How does June Mountain stand on the issue of incorporation?"

For the following philosophical and real reasons I am in favor of the incorporation of the city of June Lake.

I believe that government, at whatever level—federal, state, county or city—should do only those things for the people that the people want done, but can not do for themselves; not the other way around, do for the people what they are not willing to do for themselves.

As a ski area operator on federal land I know what it is like to deal with the federal government. At times I have found them responsive, but not nearly as often as I have found them to be arbitrary and capricious. I know, too, that once they act or have made a decision, regardless of the merits or tenuousness of the circumstances, their action or decision tends to harden into a rigidity that gives rise to the expression "cast in concrete." Once cast it is extremely difficult, if not nearly impossible, to change. Part of this is due to government policy which is set in Washington, D.C., over 2,500 miles away and the other part is due to the seeming transient nature of responsible Forest Service personnel—here today and gone tomorrow.

Generally speaking, the farther away the government is from the governed the less responsible it tends to be. This adversely affects the possibility for change or needed correction of actions taken.

The new city of June Lake will be composed mostly of federally owned lands. It is my belief that the Forest Service, whether or not they realize it, will soon discover that they must be far more responsive to the will of the governed as an incorporated city than they have in the past to an unincorporated community. Like it or not, the Forest Service is and has been a major factor in the June Lake Loop. I have seen them exercise veritable dictatorial powers over this community. In fact, I believe they are largely responsible for the June Lake area remaining reasonably static for nearly 20 years. This may please some people. However, this lack of growth, in my opinion, threatens the economic underpinnings of this entire community. It is not strengthening enough to provide a secure base for those people who wish to make this their permanent home. It is my opinion that June Lake needs to grow as an integral part of the recreational area serving mostly Southern California and its approximately 11 million people.

I am in favor of growth. I believe it is essential. Our national population is expanding between two percent and three percent per year and we are a microcosm of this expansion. I earnestly feel that I have a moral responsibility to provide more and more jobs so that the young people of this country will continue to have places of employment. For that matter, we all have a moral responsibility to do our part in providing some form of job opportunity to the next generation.

To some, growth is synonymous with the destruction of the natural beauty of the June Lake Loop. I happen to think that we certainly should and can preserve the beauty of June Lake while at the same time having growth. The Swiss have done it and I know we can do it, too. As a city, it is my belief that this growth can best be coordinated, encouraged and stimulated than as an unincorporated area within the county.

June Lake has some basic problems that do not exist in exactly the same manner as in the rest of the county. June Lake needs special treatment. This, in my judgment, cannot and will not take place as an unincorporated part of the county. Further, I believe it is vital to the economic foundation of this community that these problems be solved without delay. I simply do not think the county is able to do it, no matter how much they would like to. As a city with local control we will stand a much greater chance of solving our own special problems. In my opinion, as a city, it will be sooner rather than later that we will have the monetary wherewithall with which to do some of these necessary things.

There are some risks which, as a city, we will be taking. On the matter of cost versus revenue issue, I must point out that there is no such thing as a sure thing. There is some risk in almost everything; success cannot be achieved without giving up some form of security, even if that security is only in the maintenance of the status quo. You can not reach third base without first leaving the bag on second. With just a modicum of fiduciary responsibility within the community this will be a financially successful city. Other cities have and are doing it and such can and probably will be the case in June Lake.

I think this is the time for June Lake to incorporate. I think we are ready for incorporation. In fact, I think we need it; it will benefit everyone. Incorporation will give us what we need most—local control to solve local problems. Further, incorporation will give us an immeasurably greater voice on the issues with which the Forest Service has legitimate concerns and legal responsibility.

Because June Mountain is on federally owned lands, I can see no real difference for the ski area that incorporation will make. On the other hand, I see an immensely positive and beneficial effect for the rest of June Lake.

Sincerely,

W. C. Hayward, President

Supervisors Appoint Neil McCarroll to Negotiate

8 of 9 Council Candidates Request Independent Counsel for Juniper Ridge Talks

by Ziba Rashidian

Mono Supervisors Tuesday appointed Mammoth attorney Neil McCarroll to represent the county and the nascent town of Mammoth Lakes in negotiations with proponents of the Juniper Ridge project.

The board bowed to a request from eight of the nine Mammoth town council candidates to hire an attorney to represent the community in bargaining sessions with Senior Corp., the Flordia-based land bank that owns the 59.16-acre Juniper Ridge parcel.

Only Richard Paust refused to sign the two-page letter requesting the county hire an outside attorney.

"We've got a group of people [in Mammoth] who—right or wrong—are a little hot under the collar; they feel they're being left out," explained incorporation committee member and town council candidate Boyd Lemmon of the candidates' request at Tuesday's board meeting.

"Psychologically, they've got their dander up. It's not good. What I'm concerned about is a cotton-picking lawsuit. That doesn't do anybody any good," Lemmon said. "I don't want to imply that I know of anyone who is contemplating a suit," he added.

Lemmon said the request to hire an attorney to represent the interest of the proposed town in negotiations on the 20-year development agreement between Senior Corp. and the county was not a stall tactic. He said that most of the candidates, as well as the incorporation committee, feel the proposal which includes a convention/hotel facility will be an economic boon to the community.

"Under no circumstances do we want to see the project stop dead in its tracks either because of incorporation or because of lawsuits being filed because we are not represented. We want to be sure the project keeps going," Lemmon said.

The original request from the town council candidates outlined a proposal for either the county or Senior Corp. to foot the bill for a separate attorney to represent the interests of the proposed town. Supervisors, however, opted to appoint a special council to represent both the county and the town.

According to County Counsel Ron Braden, the board's action means that McCarroll will advise the board, planning commission, planning department and city council candidates on the Juniper Ridge project. Braden's office will not be involved in the legal wrangles over the project.

The board took some convincing before acquiescing to the request.

Supervisor Paul Johnson said he was not certain of the need to hire an outside attorney to make people feel involved in the approval process.

"If they are concerned I feel they have adequate opportunity to give input at public hearings. We've spent years getting to this point; now we've got a red flag waving," Johnson said.

"I can understand Boyd's [Lemmon] concerns. You've got to look out for your own interest. The way I look at this, the county is going to have a lot of dealings down the line with the city of Mammoth Lakes. It's very important to a have a good-faith, working relationship with the city. Here's an excellent opportunity to start that," Supervisor Tim Alpers said.

Supervisor Andrea Lawrence strongly supported the request. She noted that the potential impact of the project on the town seemed to require some representation of the community's interest. "This is preventative law as far as I'm concerned," Lawrence said, noting that a lawsuit could result from the situation if Mammoth is not adequately represented.

"It's like we're being forced into a marriage and we haven't met the bride," Lemmon said.

The board also allocated $3,000 from the county's dwindling contingency fund to cover the legal expense. McCarroll will serve as special counsel on the Juniper Ridge project until June 30, 1984, the end of the county's fiscal year.

Lemmon suggested McCarroll be hired, noting the attorney has a longtime involvement with the incorporation drive. Lemmon also said the attorney has been studying the Juniper Ridge issue and is very interested in the project since "he lives 1,000 feet away from it."

Contractor Tom Thee Given Sentence of Three Years

by Nicholas Renton

Mammoth contractor Tom Thee was given the maximum sentence of three years in a state prison by Mono County Superior Court Judge Harry Roberts Friday, May 18, for diversion of more than $1,000 in construction funds.

Immediately following his sentencing, Thee filed a notice of intention to appeal Roberts' decision to the state's 3rd District Court of Appeals.

Thee's conviction and sentence stem from two incidents—Oct. 24 and Dec. 16, 1981—against Arthur and Jackie Bergman.

Roberts also granted a motion admitting Thee to $25,000 bail, pending Thee's appeal, according to David Cross, a deputy district attorney for Mono County.

Canyon Boulevard Still in Limbo State

by Ziba Rashidian

Sporadic negotiations between Mono County and property owners along Canyon Boulevard have apparently put the proposed reconstruction of the pothole-riddled street in limbo.

Supervisors Tuesday directed county counsel Ron Braden to pick up the negotiations with the Mammoth West Homeowners Association and to report back to the board June 5.

Since December 1983, when the Mammoth West Homeowners Association filed an $80,000 claim against the county, supervisors have been negotiating with the association to resolve questions concerning the street. In question is the privately owned upper stretch of the street between Mammoth Slopes Drive and Warming Hut II parking lot. Easements from every other property owner along 600 feet of privately owned road have been granted to the county. The county has dedications from San Anton, Chamonix and the Austria Hof.

Mammoth West, however, wanted a guarantee that the county would repair and maintain the street once the easements were granted.

On-and-off negotiations between the county and the association's attorney have occurred ever since the claim was filed. Mammoth West wants to grant the county a "conditional" easement, meaning that if the county fails to meet the conditions of the easement the property will revert back to the association's ownership.

At Tuesday's supervisors meeting in Bridgeport, Public Works Director Dick Melim told the board that the last conversations he had with the Mammoth West Homeowners Association were in mid-March. At that time, Melim said he discussed conditioning the easement with CalTrans. He said the state agency reinforced his concerns that the county needed a more secure type of ownership of the stretch of road before it could invest public monies in its repair.

Melim said one way out of the dilemma would be an agreement giving the county the easement, but stipulating that if the county does not repair and maintain the road within two years from the granting of the right of way, ownership would revert to Mammoth West. Backing up this agreement would be a maintenance agreement setting up the level of maintenance the county would provide on the street.

Earlier this year, the board put the reconstruction of Canyon at the top of its list for federally funded county road projects. Melim said the design of the reconstruction of the upper portion of the road is almost complete with an estimated price tag of $100,000.

"We can't do anything until we have the right-of-way," Melim said. He noted that once the right-of-way issue is settled, it will take four to six weeks to advertise and select a bid. He estimated it would take a contractor up to two weeks to start the work and about three months to finish the project. With that type of a time frame, he said, it may be difficult to do the reconstruction project this summer.

The issue of turning over the privately owned portion of Canyon to the county was first raised in 1981 when the road began to deteriorate due to runoff from Spring Creek. The problem with the creek, according to the county, dates back a dozen years. At that time the county failed to get developers of condominium projects along the road to provide a drainage system for the creek. Since there is no drainage system, water from the creek washes down Canyon Boulevard.

In 1981, the county was interested in acquiring the roadway since it was heavily used by skiers on their way to Warming Hut II.

HOSPITAL: Board Members Meet with Centinela. . .

Odom said Ross submits his bill to Mammoth Hospital, which, in turn, submits the legal bill to Centinela. The Inglewood health facility then pays Mammoth Hospital, which, in turn, pays Ross.

"There is no conflict-of-interest here," said Odom, who added that Centinela approached Mammoth Hospital and agreed to pay its legal fees during the lease negotiations. "That's normal when someone attempts to buy you out in the hospital business. Had they paid Mike directly, then it would have been a conflict-of-interest."

Ross said his agreement is for Mammoth Hospital to pay his legal billings. Mammoth Hospital then has an agreement with Centinela to be reimbursed.

Attorney Ross said that his agreement is for Mammoth Hospital to pay his legal billings. Mammoth Hospital then has an agreement with Centinela to be reimbursed.

In other hospital news, the board of directors at its monthly meeting Tuesday instructed Odom to put a legal notice to solicit bids to replace the deteriorating wood siding at the hospital. The board also renewed its pharmacy contract with Mammoth Village Pharmacy for another year.

It also appears that the hospital is ready to sign a laundry contract with Mammoth View Laundry. The negotiations have gone back and forth since 1983.

Odom reported that he had talked to Mono County Auditor Myron Schlaegel on whether the hospital is receiving the correct amount of interest on its special district tax funds. "Everything appeared proper to me," said Odom.

The hospital board will be busy this week. On Wednesday, board members Phil Hamilton and Barbara Alison-Youel flew to Los Angeles with attorney Ross for another round of negotiations with Centinela.

At the board meeting Tuesday, a citizen asked when a copy of the proposed lease would be available to the public. Hamilton replied that the lease is not finished at this time, but before any contract is signed, the public will have a chance to review and comment on the lease.

MHS Fund-raiser to Be Held At McDonald's on Saturday

by Michele Hamada

The McDonald's pancake breakfast is set for Saturday, May 26, from 7 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Tickets are still being sold by individuals and are only 89 cents, however, an 11 cent donation is requested, making the total cost of the ticket $1. All ticket proceeds will go to each individual's financial cost of an athletic camp.

Many of the Mammoth High School students will be helping out at McDonald's with the cooking and serving on Saturday.

This fund-raiser is definitely beneficial to our athletes. Kirsten Bergman, cheerleader at MHS, stated, "I feel the community and McDonald's has given us an excellent opportunity to raise money for our summer camps."

Many students feel the same and would like to thank McDonald's and the community for their support and interest in the future athletes.

Please help support our athletes by purchasing a pancake breakfast ticket.

Huskie Season Ends Abruptly in Big Pine

by Nicholas Renton

Big Pine's Robbie Vance (9-3) ended the Mammoth Huskies' hopes of success in the California Interscholastic Federation small-school baseball playoffs with a 6-0, two-hit shutout May 18.

In the season-ending defeat Friday, 13 Huskies struck out at the plate, and only shortstop Tony Rhymes' two hits kept Vance from recording a no-hitter. The Huskies had stomped the Warriors 14-5 April 10 in a game where Vance did not pitch.

"Their pitcher, Robbie Vance, did a very good job," said Huskie coach Regan Greene, whose team finished the season at 8-13, 4-4 in Desert-Inyo League competition. "We played good defense, but we just didn't hit the ball."

Sophomore Mark Rowan (0-2) started for the Huskies, and despite the loss, was praised by Greene. "He had one bad inning, but he pitched well," said Greene, who was philosophical about the end of his tenth season. "We did everything we possibly could to prepare to have a good season. It just didn't come out that way. Maybe they were overworked."

The Warriors, behind an eight-hit attack, scored two runs in the second inning, three in the third, and added a single run in the fifth. The Huskies failed to score Rhymes in the fifth after he tripled with one out, and in their final gasp, stranded Rhymes at third again and third baseman Scott Breslin at first in the seventh.

All the Huskies can await now are the all-league selections and possible all-CIF honors for some of them. Seniors Rhymes and second baseman Mark Ladinig have the best chances for these, as Rhymes batted .422 for the year, while Ladinig finished at an even .500. Rowan's .328 also makes him a possibility.

HUSKIE HODGEPODGE: The Huskies ended their season batting .266, and yielded a 4.77 ERA...Mark Ladinig, with an 0-for-2 day (including a walk), just made .500 for the season. The second baseman also earned 16 bases on balls during the year...Huskie coach Regan Greene said of this season's squad: "They worked hard; I just don't know why we didn't have a good season...several Huskies may be asked to play in the Kiwanis Club All-Star Game in June...the baseball banquet is coming up soon...Greene wants to mention the work of Paul Rowan, Mark Rowan and Ladinig with the 13- to 15-year-old team...the Huskies were outscored by their opponents, 134 runs to 103; they struck out 190 times during the season, while their opposition whiffed just 123 times...the Huskies stole 62 bases during the season...Tony Rhymes led the the Huskies in ERA with 3.98 on his way to a 3-1 season record...Jim Engelman led the staff with four victories.

Teresa Stephans Wins Eber Slaught Award

Winner of the Eber Slaught Award for the 1983-84 elementary ski team was Teresa Stephans, with Melissa Coleman as runner-up. Stephans, who helped other young racers on the team, displayed one of the most positive attitudes.

The award is given to the student skier who shows the most potential for contributing to skiing education.

Eber Slaught, who skied in the '40s with Dave and Roma McCoy, owns Burbank Sporting Goods and has taught hundreds of Southern Calfiornians how to ski. Some of his former students are Mammoth Mountain ski instructor Jim Murphy and Rich Lewis of The Review.

Sierra Park Road 934-8548

Tioga Pass Opens 42 Days Earlier Than Last Year

by Nicholas Renton

Tioga Pass opened at 6:30 a.m. Saturday, May 19, six days ahead of this year's schedule and 42 days earlier than 1983's opening date of June 30.

Representatives from CalTrans and the National Park Service, which share responsibility for clearing the pass, met May 16 to schedule the opening. Unlike last year, no ceremonies were held to mark the renewal of traffic on the 58-mile stretch of Hwy. 120, which connects the Eastern Sierra with Yosemite National Park.

Yet the return of Eastern Sierra motorists to the park was marred by the death of a Delhi man on the Park Service maintenance crew that cleared 47 miles of the road—from Crane Flat to the park's eastern gate.

Sam Smallwood, 52, was blasting boulders from the road when he was killed by a flying rock May 17. A government employee for 30 years, Smallwood had worked in Yosemite since 1978. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

Lisa Dapprich, a public affairs officer for Yosemite, advised caution on Tioga Pass. "All roads are open and clear, but people should watch for icy spots, especially at high elevations," said Dapprich. "All campgrounds in Tuolumne Meadows are expected to open in early June, and are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Campgrounds in the valley are available through Ticketron, but are sold out to July 9."

Lodging can be obtained in Yosemite Valley by calling Yosemite Park and Curry Co., at (209) 252-4848. Wawona, Crane Flat and Hodgdon Meadow campgrounds cost $6 per day, and are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Bridalveil Creek campground, along the Glacier Point road, will open as soon as the snow melts.

All Glacier Point facilities opened May 18, and services in Tuolumne Meadows will be available beginning Memorial Day weekend. Limited food items and gasoline will be available at the Tioga Pass Resort, 1.6 miles outside the park's east boundary.

"No overnight parking will be allowed along the Tioga Pass Road from Crane Flat to Tioga Pass," Robert O. Binnewies, park superintendent, said.

Hiking and backpacking at the higher elevations will be limited until later in the season. Backcountry rangers are anticipating that snow will cover trails at the 8,000-foot elevation until the end of May. Trails between 8,000 and 9,500 feet may not be free of snow until the middle of June, and those trails above 9,500 feet may be snow covered until early July.

Trails between 8,000 and 9,500 feet may not be free of snow until the middle of June, and those trails above 9,500 feet may be snow-covered until early July.

Wilderness permits are required for all overnight trips into Yosemite's backcountry. Permits are available in Yosemite Valley at the backcountry desk next to the visitor center from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. Permit stations in Wawona, Tuolumne Meadows and the Big Oak Flat information office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. over the Memorial Day weekend.

On May 16 Berrios Construction Co. of San Francisco and the National Park Service began installing a new, energy-efficient lighting system in the Wawona Tunnel on Hwy. 41 in the park. Only single lanes of traffic will be allowed through the tunnel from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., Sunday evening through Friday morning. During this period, traffic may be subject to a 20-minute delay. The tunnel will be open with no restrictions all other hours of the day and on weekends. Completion of the project is expected by July 10.

Call (209) 372-4454 for current road, weather, camping and backcountry conditions.

The candidates all stress one major theme in their pitches: the need for Mammoth to become a year-round resort. They also believe in the concept of a resort association that would receive support from the town government, but think the idea needs more study.

Individually, candidates focused on improving the transportation in Mammoth, the possibility of municipal trash pick-up, law enforcement, property taxes and the role of campaign spending in the town council race.

Campbell has lived in Mammoth since 1974, and has volunteered her time to the Mammoth Hospital Auxiliary, the Mammoth Ski Education Foundation, the Mammoth Lakes Chamber of Commerce and the Sierra Summer Festival. The Mammoth Slopes resident is currently director of sales and tours for the Sierra Nevada Inn.

Stressing unity in her campaign, Campbell wants to see the community and the candidates working together. "I want to see us be a team for incorporation, and be a healthy amalgam of talent."

Campbell sees five major goals for the new council: it must develop a year-round economic base, improve services, provide year-round public transit, determine planning for development, and hire a talented town manager."

Flynn has served the community as charter president of the Mammoth Rotary Club, as member of the Mono County Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Design Review Authority until 1983, and as a second-term president of the Mammoth Lakes Chamber of Commerce.

The most well-known of the candidates, Flynn has also waged the most active campaign. After a campaign kick-off May 5 at Whiskey Creek, Flynn has attended two coffees and has plans to attend 12 more. His campaign has produced stickers, posters and buttons. He plans to advertise in The Review, Channel 5, KMMT and KIOQ.

"We need to get the economy going so that it spreads itself out," says Flynn. "Public transportation is an important issue, improvement of our roads is an inmportant issue. I think I have a very good community involvement background and the people in the community know this. My being elected to a second term as chamber president shows this."

Flynn faces election day with high hopes. "I'm confident of my chances," says Flynn. "I feel good about them."

Gardner, born in Bishop, has lived in the Eastern Sierra for over 25 years. Gardner left Los Alamitos, where he served as a police sergeant, in 1981, at which time he became a Mono County deputy sheriff, his current occupation. As president of the Mono County Deputy Sheriffs Association, he worked on the wage and benefit agreement between that organization and the county.

With a brother serving as a councilman in New England, Gardner has been able to borrow not only buttons but also a slogan: "Every town needs a Gardner." His campaign also features posters, get-togethers, and newspaper and radio advertising.

Gardner's career in law enforcement is reflected in one of his major campaign themes. "It's important that this town is kept a quiet and peaceful place," he says. "Let's clean this town up." Gardner feels this is necessary if Mammoth is to achieve the status of a year-round resort."

He also has faith in his electoral chances. "I feel good," he says. "Even odds of five-out-of-nine aren't so bad. But I have a lot to offer. I grew up in Bishop and know this area well."

Lemmon,a dedicated supporter of incorporation, attended every Local Agency Formation Commission and board of supervisors' hearing on incorporation, and helped to circulate petitions on the issue. The certified public accountant also served on the Mono County Planning Commission for three-and-a-half years.

Mammoth voters have seen little of him in the campaign, admits Lemmon. "I haven't done much personally," he says. "But I am going to have coffees where people can meet me." Lemmon, besides pushing incorporation, has also advertised his own candidacy, using flyers and ads in The Review.

Lemmon stresses the importance of Mammoth's obtaining state and federal grants to help the new town in its nascence. "Whatever it takes to get the job done," he says. "It may take substantial grants of dollars to get us going. Therefore we need a city manager with grantsmanship; someone with the knack of writing and getting grants."

With his name in the news as a supporter of incorporation, Lemmon thinks he has an advantage in the election. "My name has been in the news off and on for two or three years. I would presume that would be good."

Medina moved to Mammoth in 1978, after serving as an administrative analyst in Los Angeles. Medina, an attorney, has been maintaining a law practice since her move to Mammoth, one year after gaining admittance to the California Bar in 1977.

Her campaign is purposely low-key, Medina says. "I don't think it's appropriate to spend large sums of money to acquire an office that's unsalaried," she says, claiming to have spent nothing on her campaign. "I don't have a campaign. I'm not soliciting funds. Anybody is free to talk to me."

Medina sees recreation as a needed facet of the community. "I want to see a city park," she says. "I want to see city-sponsored recreation for children." She is also the only candidate who supported the concept of a municipal trash service."

With her limited campaign, Medina sees her chances as not the best. "I don't think they're as good as the chances of the candidates who are spending the money on name recognition, but I don't think they're that bad."

TOWN COUNCIL RACE: Mammoth Voters Have Nine Choices. . . Continued From Page 21

Newbry owns Mammoth Maintenance Service, but his name has been in the news due to his co-chairmanship of the Mammoth Lakes Design Review Authority, which adjudges aesthetic appearances for local businesses. Newbry is also a member of the chamber of commerce and the Mammoth Lakes Lions Club.

To finance his advertisments in The Review, KMMT and/or Channel 5, Newbry is willing to accept help in his campaign. "If someone is willing to contribute to my campaign, fine, I have some money to spend," he says. "If someone feels they will have to be beholden to someone because they accepted contributions, then they have a problem."

In regard to the Juniper Ridge development project, Newbry supports it with reservations. "I'm in favor," he says. "But there are going to be changes with it anyway. I support the Valentine Reserve in mitigating the impact of the condominums to the north." Newbry also supports alternative A for the Meridian extension.

Paust has lived in Mammoth for five years, but has known the area since his childhood. The Mammoth Lakes attorney has served as a volunteer firefighter with the Mammoth Lakes Fire Protection District, on the Forest Service as a wilderness ranger and naturalist interpreter, on the Mammoth Search and Rescue Team, on the Great Basin Unified Air Pollution Control District's board of appeals and in the business law section of the State Bar. He is a member of the Lions Club and the Business Trial Lawyers Association.

His campaign, which includes advertising in The Review and flyers, is financed entirely by himself, Paust says. "I haven't received a dime," he says. "That means I'm not tied to anybody. I don't have any favoritism to anybody. I would vote for what would be fair, just and equitable for the community."

Paust stresses his reluctance to raise taxes. "The candidates are in favor of a resort association, under which the chamber of commerce will operate," says Paust. "To reach that goal, some of the candidates are in favor of increasing sales tax or increasing business licensing fees. I'm opposed to increasing taxes at all."

Saari, a gold-medal swimmer in the 1964 Tokyo Olympics, is the third attorney in the race. He worked for the Santa Ana law firm of Kendall and Anderson for three years before moving to Mammoth in 1976. He presently is a contractor and snow removal operator.

"I put my name in the hopper to give the people a choice to include me at election time," says Saari. "I don't represent any interest groups, and I haven't solicited any campaign contributions. I have limited my campaign spending to advertising in The Review.

Saari highlights an improved economy as a goal of his campaign. "I'm trying to stress stimulating the local economy," he says. "If the economy is stimulated, it will benefit the city by providing more tax revenues, which will make the town government stronger financially."

The lack of through-roads concerns Saari too. "I definitely feel something should be done about traffic congestion." he says. "I propose to do everything I can to get Meridian through to Hwy. 203 to help the access and flow of traffic. Minaret should be extended to Meridian and on to the Snowcreek area. We need to speed up the negotiations with Lodestar and get that road through."

Watkins, a former reporter for the Mono Herald, and currently working for Dr. James Cole's office, first entered Mono County politics as a member of Monoans Against Unresponsive Supervisors last March. When MAUS' efforts led to a recall election for Jencks and Leydecker, she attempted to run for Leydecker's seat, but lost by a wide margin to Bob Stanford, the current supervisor.

"My campaign is doing very well," says Watkins. "I'm attending campaign coffees other people are holding for me, and I will attend several more in the next two weeks."

One of Watkins' concerns agreed to by all the candidates (except for Paust) in a letter signed this week. "The town council candidates requested that the board of supervisors and/or Senior Corporation provide an independent counsel for the town of Mammoth Lakes in negotiations that would take place over Juniper Ridge," she says. "I'm quite concerned that the planning agencies for major developments in the future address the impacts on the town in any negotiations."

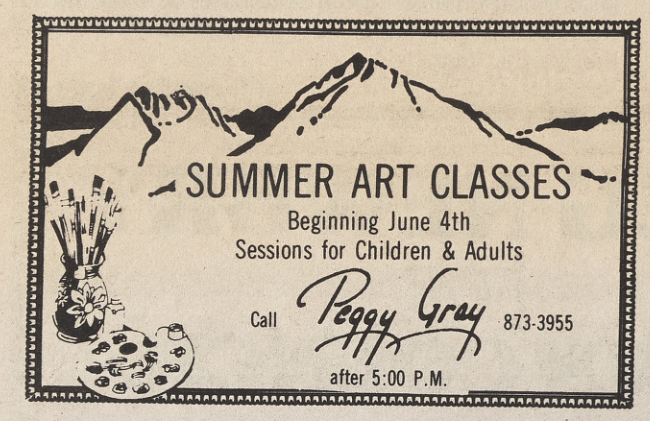

Watkins, despite her defeat last October, remains confident she can serve Mammoth. "I still feel I have a lot to contribute to the community," she says. "There is a much different atmosphere than when we went through the supervisors' race. I had strong convictions during the recall race. Bob Stanford told me he would not run, and didn't decide to run until the last day. It was an atmosphere where everyone felt very threatened, and Bob was very predictable, so they turned to him."

JUNIPER RIDGE...

project in early May, representatives of the Valentine Reserve and Senior Corp. have been negotiating to solve the potential impact of the project on the reserve's viewshed. Dodge Crockett, who represents Carol Valentine, said these negotiations have yet to result in a solution.

The question of the proposed realignment of Meridian Road also sparked concern by residents of the Majestic Pines area. As outlined in the tentative tract map for the project, the road would take out the existing tennis courts and run about 20 feet from the property line of several valuable homes.

At the hearing, the commission decided to throw out the so-called alternative "B," opting for an alignment away from the tennis courts.

One of the main concerns raised at the first formal hearing on the project before the Mono Planning Commission May 10 was the issue of water. The Mammoth County Water District Board was apparently caught unawares by the project and has been scrambling to compile information on the proposal's potential impacts on the district's water resources. The district requested the commission defer action on Juniper Ridge until its meeting Wednesday, May 23 to allow MCWD staff time to analyze the issue.

Original concern was prompted by a statement in the environmental impact report on the project which stated that the proposal could use up to one-third of the community's unallocated water resources.

MCWD Manager of Operations and Maintenance Don Groundwater addressed the water issue at the hearing. Groundwater said figures compiled by the district show the Juniper Ridge project using about 11 percent of the community's unallocated water supply. Groundwater said current demand on the district's water resources runs about 2,267 acre-feet a year, while the district's supply stands at 3,647 acre-feet per year. This leaves the district with 1,380 acre-feet unallocated. The Juniper Ridge project, by MCWD estimates, would use about 156 acre feet of water per year.

Juniper Ridge is owned by the Florida-based land-bank Senior Corp., which obtained the acreage on a foreclosure when Eastern Sierra Development Co. went bankrupt in 1981.

CAO to Take Charge of County Emergency Plans

Poppelreiter to Take Over Planning Responsibility

by Ziba Rashidian

New County Administrative Officer Nick Poppelreiter will take the helm of Mono County's emergency services program.

Emergency Services came to the fore in May 1982 when the U.S. Geologic Survey issued its notice of potential volcanic hazard for the Mammoth Lakes area. Since that time the position of director of emergency services has been shuffled from department to department, lately coming to rest as the responsibility of Mono Sheriff "Digger" Wilson.

At last week's workshop on emergency services with the board of supervisors and Wilson, the sheriff suggested that the board shift the duties of the office to Poppelreiter. Originally, Public Works Director Dick Melim was charged with the responsibilities which range from preparation of an emergency plan for the county to coordinating emergency response by county departments. In December 1982, Melim's large work load led to the transfer of the duties to the sheriff's department where Wilson and Emergency Services Coordinator Ruby Benedict drafted the county's emergency plan. Benedict later resigned from the coordinator post.

In endorsing the transfer of the duties to Poppelreiter, Wilson noted that he agreed to take on the job with the proviso that when a county administrative officer was hired the functions would be shifted to that office.

"The emergency planning process is extremely time-consuming," Wilson said, noting he is presently juggling the duties of sheriff, coroner and emergency services director.

"I did feel the obligation to get the thing off the ground. I think things have progressed very rapidly. Now that we have a CAO on board, the directorship should more rightfully be in that office. It's a little difficult for myself, as an elected official, to look at another elected official and tell him what to do. That should come from the top down," Wilson said.

"My more proper role is in operations—search and rescue, that type of thing. It's really time for me to step out of the planning field," Wilson said.

At the workshop on emergency planning, the board also discussed reforming the Mono County Emergency Public Information Committee. The board voted unanimously to disband the inactive Mono County organization and to explore consolidating the functions of the committee into a one-person job.

EPIC was the center of a heated debate when it was first formed in January 1982. Although the Forest Service had already formed an interagency EPIC, Mono County decided to splinter off and form its own information committee. The committee formed in 1982 was comprised mostly of members of the press.

The board also discussed appointing "standby supervisors," or persons to speak for a supervisor during an emergency if the supervisor is not in the county. Poppelreiter said several other jurisdictions follow this procedure.

The board took the suggestion under advisement and will discuss the issue again later this summer.

The issues of adding a volcano annex to the county emergency plan and the possibility of establishing a separate position of emergency services coordinator on a temporary basis will be discussed during budget deliberations.

Grant to Fund Musicians For 'Sound of Music' Play

The Symphony of the Eastern Sierra, under the direction and conducting of Bogidar Avramov, began its first season last year during the Sierra Summer Festival with a program which included a Beethoven symphony. Last year there were 33 members plus four professional musicians. This year, with a $1,600 Mono County Arts Council grant, the symphony anticipates as many as 45 members and will present the music of Rodger's and Hammerstein's "Sound of Music" as support of the stage production on July 26 and 27. On July 28, the symphony will present an evening of classical music, which will include local guest soloists, ensemble music and a pleasing variety of orchestral works.

All instrumentalists wishing to have this unique opportunity, should write to the Sierra Summer Festival (P.O. Box 7710, Mammoth Lakes, CA 93546) or call Barbara Campbell at 934-2409 or 934-2515. Rehearsals will begin July 21 in Warming Hut II and a complete schedule will be sent to each participant. Master teachers will also provide special help to each of the sections of the orchestra. Instrumental music will be available by June 15 to enable participants to have the opportunity to rehearse prior to the first gathering of the orchestra. Registration deadline is June 15.

Avramov is the conductor and musical director of the Beverly Hills Symphony and professor of music at Loyola Marymont University. He was most impressed with the 1983 symphony and has expressed his enthusiasm for this summer's plans. Avramov is a second homeowner in Mammoth and has dedicated his talent and energy to make the Symphony of the Eastern Sierra become a reality and something very special for the musical enjoyment of our residents and visitors.

Question: 'What Does It All Mean?'

by Rev. Russell Peet, Th.M.
Pastor, Mammoth Community Church

Deluged with data we let a lot flow by us without encountering it so as to avoid overload. We accept partial ignorance because of the deluge of data. But there is something you cannot ignore—the meaning of things, total and relevant truth. "What does it all mean?" our minds ask us.

Ministers' Column

Minds whether normal or abnormal strive to put it all together. One with an abnormal mental computer sat in my office repeatedly asking, "Am I the man in the mirror or the man in the chair?" He just couldn't put together reality and reflection, but the point is that his mind kept trying to put it all together, to deduce meaning. Minds demand the bottom line of things—sense out of sensations, understanding of information, intelligence rather than ignorance.

But sometimes our minds opt out for "a-musement" (non-thinking)—ignorance is bliss, blissful ignorance. But what you don't know can hurt you. What you refuse to know hurts even more, for willful ignorance (ignorance means ignoring) effects blind ignorance—that loss of openness to the input of valid and vital information. Such is the loss of true mental liberalism. Minds need to muse on both kinds of knowledge to promote wisdom. The Greeks spoke of oida or objective knowledge—facts to be faced now for benefit or later for bane—and of gnosis or subjective knowledge—experience to be examined now in the time of opportunity.

From a very wise man who gave a lecture on the Greek hill of Mars in Athens, we learn of total and relevant truth of God: "For in him we live and move and have our being," he said. That man, schooled in three cultures (Judaic, Grecian and Roman), in his scriptures repeatedly spoke of the allness in the phrase "ta panta en pantes" ("the All in All"). To the Christian he said, "All things are yours" so it is foolish to limit yourself proudly to a single human teacher when they belong to Christ and Christ belongs to God. Evolutionists err in unquestionably following one teacher and tradition—without question generation after generation—without critical examination. Are such scientists? Liberals? Is their basic fundamental sacrosanct?

Factual light of revelation shows the autonomous and active powerful person "the same God, the energizing (working) one, the one who energizes (works) 'the All in All'." This is the intelligent aim and purpose as Christ will deliver up the kingdom to the father "that the God may be 'the All in All'." The church will reveal the same all-ness of God. He is able to subdue all things to himself.

By belief in Christ (the anointed) we have the chrisma (anointing) of the spirit "and know all things" or objectively understand the meaning of revealed facts and have also subjective working knowledge that God is the only true God and has sent Jesus (savior) Christ (anointed), such is eternal life. There are tests both objective and subjective by which we can know the meaning of life. You cannot ignore the meaning of things: total and relevant truth. Jesus is the way, the truth, and the life; no one comes to the father except by him. By him all things consist (stand together). You cannot ignore "the All in All." No theodicy (defense of God) is ever needed but for man's benefit; theology (study of God) is vital especially when many are totally ignorant of this science. The fool says emotionally in his heart (since it is illogical): "No God!" The wise says "Lord, save me!"

Yes, that was John Travolta and Jamie Lee Curtis stepping out of the silver limo at the Snowcreek Athletic Club Monday and Tuesday for a little workout. The Snowcreek staff was a titters, but not as much as some Mammoth moms. After Travolta finished his Nautilus workout Monday, he saw several Mammoth children playing around by the front desk. John was asked if he could give Andrea Yorkey, Jessica Berger and Ben Hardisty a kiss. Without missing a beat, the three toddlers received a kiss that I'm sure the Mammoth mothers wished they would have had. The limo, with its smoked-glass windows, then drove off to the Mammoth Boulangerie for lunch. Tuesday, Travolta lounged on the Snowcreek sun deck with some friends.

Prom night for the juniors and seniors at Mammoth High was loads of fun, I hear. The guys really dressed up to the hilt in fancy tuxedos of every hue. The girls looked great in their long dresses. The couples ate at some of Mammoth's fashionable restaurants then high-tailed it to Altitude 9000 for the prom dance. Carol Broberg and the senior class officers really put on a good dance, and Mammoth Mountain did everything it could to make Prom Night a memorable one. Then the kids went to Schatzee's restaurant at 1:30 a.m. for breakfast! The Mammoth Rotary Club put on the special breakfast for the Prom-goers so they would have someplace to go after the dance. MHS counselor Mike Martin said the Rotary Club did such a good job that they will never get out of it. Then some prom couples went to Crowley Lake, where one junior tried to jump a mud puddle with Dad's shiny Cadillac. Alas, the car did not make it and it sank in a mud hole up to its door panels. The doors would not open, there was so much mud. Still, it was a special Prom night for the Mammoth High students as they watched the sun come up at Crowley Lake.

Speaking of Mammoth High, don't forget about the play coming up, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." It's a Broadway comedy classic, a lot of fun, and I am sure the drama crew over at Mammoth High will have us in stitches. The play will run June 1-2, 8-9 at the multipurpose room beginning at 7:15 p.m. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for children.

Lawrence Lobbies for the Mono Lake Bill in Capital

by Nicholas Renton

Mono County Supervisor Andrea Lawrence joined with U.S. Sens. Alan Cranston and Pete Wilson, and Gov. George Deukmejian in supporting a Mono Lake Scenic Area Thursday, May 17, at Washington, D.C.

The four expressed their support for the scenic area at the hearings by the Senate Subcommittee on Public Land and Reserved Water on H.R. 1341, authored by Mono County's congressman, Rep. Richard Lehman.

But Lawrence deviated from her prepared testimony when the Forest Service proposed two amendments to Lehman's bill, one which would reserve the right to drill for geothermal power in the 57,000-acre scenic area, and another which would eliminate the visitors' center called for in H.R. 1341.

In opposing both amendments Lawrence spoke directly to the committee, chaired by Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo. "The amendment for geothermal development was put to rest. I mentioned how there were 430,000 acres plus of geothermal area in this county, and the real potential is down near Mammoth."

By pointing out how there were no objections to a Mono Lake visitor's center within the local Inyo National Forest, Lawrence was able to alter the second amendment. "Instead of mandating the visitor center as in the original bill, it now authorizes building a center," said Lawrence. "It's a different step in the budget process; you'll have to do battle for a visitor center."

Also supporting the bill before the committee were Cranston; Bruce Kuebler, an assistant engineer for the city of Los Angeles' Department of Water and Power; Los Angeles city councilwoman Peggy Stevenson; and David Gaines, the chairman of the Mono Lake Committee. Deukmejian and Wilson conveyed their support in written statements.

Lawrence said that in discussion with Wallop's aides during lunch, she gained confidence in the bill's eventual passage. "The stars were alligned," she said. "The endorsements of both senators, the governor and DWP bode enormously well for the bill. It may be moving very quickly."

in Lehman's office to lobby for approval of the $835,000 appraisal.

Peterson agreed to a formula which would permit the bidding process for the new school to go forward, pending final evaluation of the appraisals, Henry said. It was also tentatively determined that a higher appraisal of the site would come at no cost to the state or the district. Preliminary reports of the appraisal review indicated the lower figure was more appropriate, Henry learned.

"We're really pleased with what was decided," said Henry, speaking for MUSD. "We'd also like to recognize and thank the legislators. We felt they were crucial to this process."
